Improve your life after breast cancer

Spark&Heal was built by a breast cancer survivor for women who want life-changing outcomes after active treatment

Every lesson inside the platform is short. Every exercise is practical. And every step moves you closer to what you want most: clarity, confidence, balance, and emotional strength.
Even if you feel lost right now, the next version of you is not far away.

Start today. The change begins now.

Join the Community

What is Spark&Heal?

Free Course

You're in the right place if you're a woman affected by breast cancer at any stage, a caregiver looking for practical ways to help, or someone who feels lost after treatment ends and wants concrete tools to move forward.

Community

Spark&Heal community is a safe space where you can share, interact with other patients, survivors and caregivers. You don't need to talk only about breast cancer treatment and side effects. Here we talk about movies, art, cooking, everyday life.

Events

Every month you have an opportunity to attend an online events with holistic specialists or brands connected to breast cancer. You'll have an opportunity to learn more from each speaker, ask questions, and interact with others.

Start today. The change begins now.

Join the Community

Frequently Asked Questions

Everything you need to know about Spark&Heal.

Who built Spark&Heal?

Spark&Heal was created by Inna Shchepanska, a breast cancer survivor, patient advocate, and former Google executive with 18 years of experience in technology and product development. After completing her own treatment, Inna experienced first-hand how little structured support exists for women once active treatment ends. Spark&Heal was born to close that gap: combining lived experience, research, and collaboration with holistic specialists to support life after cancer, not just survival.

How is Spark&Heal different from other breast cancer communities?

Our coaching program stands out because it goes beyond one-time sessions. We provide ongoing support, an engaged community, and real-time guidance to ensure lasting results, not just temporary motivation.

Is the community really free?

Yes. Joining the Spark&Heal community is completely free. You can participate in discussions, read shared experiences, and access the free course without any obligation to pay.

What is the free course: Self-Management Tools for Survivors?

This is a short, practical course designed for women who are:
• newly diagnosed
• currently in treatment
• post-treatment or in recovery
The course is also has a module for caregivers.
The course helps you understand and manage common side effects such as anxiety, fatigue, body changes, emotional overwhelm, and identity shifts. Each lesson is concise and includes practical exercises you can apply immediately to improve your quality of life.

Are there live events or sessions in the community?

Yes. Every month we host free live sessions, talks, and Q&A events with holistic specialists and experts who work with breast cancer survivors. Some of the speakers are founders of brands directly connected with breast cancer, such as breast forms, or lingerie for mastectomy. These events are optional and announced inside the community.

Will I be pressured to buy anything?

No. Spark&Heal is built on trust and respect. The free course and community are complete resources on their own. For women who want deeper, personalised support, a paid six-month programme exists, but joining it is entirely optional and by application only.

Who are the holistic specialists involved?

The specialists collaborating with Spark&Heal work in areas such as movement, trauma-informed care, menopause, sleep, nutrition, mindfulness, body image, and emotional recovery. All of them have experience supporting women affected by cancer and are carefully selected for their compassionate, practical approach.

How do I get started?

Simply join the community and begin the Self-Management Tools for Survivors course. You don’t need to prepare anything or commit to a schedule. Simply start with one lesson and take it from there.